

31ST INTERNATIONAL CONGRESS OF PSYCHOLOGY

Yokohama, Japan 24-29 July, 2016

Training top-notch, innovative, international doctoral researchers with a joint doctoral program: Case of European Doctoral Programme on Career Guidance and Counseling

Chair: Prof. Valerie Cohen-Scali, Conservatoire National des Arts et Metiers (Cnam) Institut National d'étude du Travail et d'orientation Professionnelle (Inetop), France

European Doctoral Programme on Career Guidance and Counseling (ECADOC), a joint doctoral program in Europe, was created in order to set up a sustainable European Doctoral Program on career guidance and counseling and to provide international doctoral training and networking opportunities for promising doctoral researchers in the field. The program aims to create the structures and personal resources for researchers to carry out longitudinal, large scale, international research in the field. In this symposium, presenters will discuss the aims and goals of the ECADOC and the process of creating the program. Also, presenters will share the knowledge on delivery of such program and tips for successful delivery and quality assurance. Furthermore, presenters will talk about the importance of having a joint doctoral program in psychology discipline on international level
